

Caroline Cope, an artist originally from Greenville, SC trained and showed Quarter Horses in the mid-90s while working as a veterinary technician. Over the years, she owned many pure-bred dogs including Australian Shepherds, Russell Terriers and Golden Retrievers. It wasn't until she adopted a Greyhound, named Ichabod that she fell in love with sighthounds.

Almost three years ago, while living in Florida and newly retired, she purchased her first Whippet for a companion. Six months later, she had her second Whippet, GCH Karasar's Minuet; this one to show.

Caroline ended up finishing Minnee's Grand Championship all own her own and qualified for the 2016 AKC National Owner Handler Series finals in Orlando. Minnee, Caroline's first show dog went Best of Breed there! Caroline also co-bred her first litter and for the first time, finished a dog's Championship and plans to Special him, CH Karasar's Whirlwind next year.

Caroline is now back home living in Charleston, SC training with her third show dog, another Specials bitch, and a couple puppies from her second co-bred litter. Caroline is hoping to get some performance titles with her dogs in the coming year and has great plans for her third litter. What started out as getting a "good size" sighthound for fun has now turned into a passion for the breed.
